Club News

Welcome to the June 2008 edition of the Prospectors &
Treasure Hunters Newsletter

The program at the June meeting was conducted by Dennis Gee. Various panning methods were discussed along with clean up procedure.

George Baca and Jim Rainey reported on the coin hunt in Albuquerque N.M. They are both members of that club group. Tom and Kathy Bragg are members of the El Paso club and Rodney belongs to a Demming N.M. club. These affiliations with other clubs are healthy for our club and provide an influx of new/ different ideas for us to try.

There were 22 members and guests at the meeting
We welcome New member Ron Newberry.

The July meeting will be held @ 7:00 PM on Tuesday July 8th @ 2200 W. 7th Street. The program is going to be put on by Dennis Gee & Keith Ferguson. They will have a "hands on" demonstration of gold panning with water and black sand. All members are asked to come at 7 O' clock to our meeting room. We will have a short meeting and then adjourn to the panning site.

We will also discuss our Club sponsored hunt in Channing, Texas on Saturday, July 12th.

This is one hunt we will all want to attend, as we will be allowed to hunt the XIT Ranch building in Channing.

Coin finds by Jim Nichols at Will Rogers Park

On Sunday, June 29th eight club members met at Will Rogers Park to hunt coins. With a little help from recent rains, a lot of coins surfaced. There were even a few older wheat cents Dug. The oldest that came up was a 1917 wheatie. There was one ring with a Tiger eye stone found. Everyone found quite a few coins with about 40 per hunter being about average. This kind of impromptu gathering can't help but make our club stronger. It all starts with a call or an e-mail!

For more prospecting tips.

On July 5th, 13 club members met at John Stiff Park to check out the leavings by the celebrants the night before. We met at 6 or 6:30 and started finding coins right away. There were several jewelry items found, including two rings and a sterling silver chain. A pair of binoculars, a camera bag and two pair of sunglasses also turned up, along with a few golf balls and 5 marbles. Coin totals were about 90 total. At 8:30 we adjourned to Hud's restaurant for burritos and hot coffee. What a great way to spend a Saturday morning.

The Internet should be your first hunting ground

The Internet is a useful tool for researching any subject. Often, it has been described as an online encyclopedia. People who take up metal detecting as a hobby can start with the Internet to locate a location, such as a park, private property or a business. Using free online tools like Yahoo Maps or Google Earth you can use some satellite imagery instead of just a map to actually see the lay of the land. Keep in mind the public database of satellite imagery is several years old so the vacant lot you found promising may have a new car wash or something on it when you put eyes on it. With some practice at looking at this imagery you can see traces left behind by people, old foundations or their transportation (Buggy trails for instance).

You want to know about history of an area the Local library has many online services that can aid you in your hobby. Photo archives, maps and history of the areas you want to hunt. Amarillo Public Library has some very good tools. College Libraries sometimes have even better tools to help research an area and its history.

As far as getting permission to hunt a specific property the Internet can possibly get you the owners name and phone number. In Amarillo/Canyon area the Potter and Randal County Property District lets you look up properties on the public tax records with owners and their address. If you just know the address use the SEACH BY STREET link. A list of addresses and owners will come up. Choose your target address; get the owners name and their address if different than the property you want. Then a quick WWW.ANYWHO.COM search will give you the listed number for that owner. The Internet when used creatively can be a huge tool for people in our hobby. The search for places to search can be as fun and you do it from the comfort of your chair. Good luck and safe hunting
